Finkel, Says
Hebrew U. May
End Fighting

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—The solution of Arab-Jewish difficulties in Palestine may come not from those fighting out the question in the political arena, but from the "ivory tower" of the Hebrew University, Samuel B. Finkel, director of the American Friends of the Hebrew University, declared last week on his return from Palestine.

The University on Mount Scopus, through the mutual respect for the respective cultures of the Arabs and Jews that it arouses, may well lead to a realization that Arabs

Oklahoman Leaves

$35,000 To Hebrew U.

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—The Hebrew University will receive approximately $35,000 under the will of Adolf Lowinger, realtor, of Lowton, Okla., who died Dec. 6 at the age of 83, it was announced by Samuel B. Finkel, director of the American Friends of the Hebrew University.

Mr. Lowinger's will, dated Dec. 11, 1936, provides that his entire estate be turned over for the use of the Hebrew University except for $2000 bequeathed to the Jewish community of his native town of Papa, Hungary.

and Jews can live together, said Mr. Finkel in an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

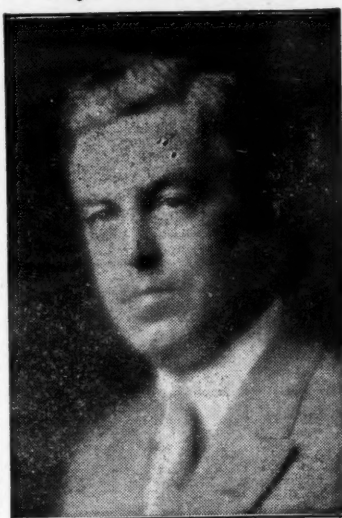

"The remedy," he declared, "may come, not from the heated controversies, but from the cool recesses of an educational institution. The University can be instrumental in showing the futility of attempting to solve this difference by hatred and force."

Mr. Finkel, who conferred with university officials and talked with teachers and students, said that both the faculty and student body at the university are determined not to permit the situation in Palestine in any way to affect their plans and their work. There are no Arab students at the university—probably because would-be students feared reprisals from other Arabs—but the doors of the institution are open to all.

One of the things the university lacks, Mr. Finkel said, is a campus life. There is little of organized athletics. The students are too busy. Many have to work for a living, and a number get their exercise hauling bricks to build the new medical center on Mount Scopus. And then there is no dormitory—although one will be built some day when the $100,000 necessary is provided by some benevolent person—and students must live wherever they can and commute to classes every day. There is a clubhouse with a cafeteria and assembly hall, but little student life as compared with American colleges.

The university has a student body of 779—731 regular students and 48 research students—and a faculty of 120. Ten of the students are from the United States, most of them from New York, one from Hartford and one from Pennsylvania. The instructors include three Americans—Prof. Mordecai Kaplan, Dr. Alexander Dushkin and I. J. Kligler.

Germans Vote
Against Nazis

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Four thousand German Americans gathered Sunday at St. Nicholas Palace to commemorate German Day in the "spirit of the true German Americans who helped found and build this country"—an anti-Nazi German Day.

Nazis distributed leaflets in front of the hall. Nazis were removed by policemen.

Charles Keutgen, Commissioner of Water Supply of the City of New York, as official representative of Mayor LaGuardia brought the greetings of the City administration. Governor Lehman sent a telegram of good wishes.

A resolution proposed by William Dodd, Jr., son of the U. S. Ambassador to Berlin, condemning Nazi activities in the United States and urging Congress to grant the right of asylum to political and religious refugees, was unanimously adopted.

Other speakers included Wilhelm Sollman, former Reich Minister of Interior, Dr. Frank Bohn, and Ludwig Renn, famous German author.

All members of the Zionist Executive, of the executive committees of Zionist fund-raising bodies, representatives of the Hebrew University and of other Jewish institutions participated in the ceremony. A place of honor was given to delegates to the first six Zionist Congresses.

Pastors Aroused
As Silver Shirts
Form New Group

LANSING, Mich.—Clergymen of Lansing have joined forces to express their opposition to the Silver Shirt movement whose organizers are at work in the city. Local pastors accepted by a unanimous vote a resolution of condemnation drawn up by Dr. E. W. Bishop, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church and presented to the Lansing Ministerial Association, within one day after existence of the organization became known here.

The resolution follows: "Whereas newspaper publicity has given out to the community at large that a Nazi group is being formed in our city with the destructive and derisive purpose of oppressing and harassing one group of our population.

"And, whereas, experience with the Nazi party in Germany has abundantly demonstrated that its motif moves quickly toward other groups such as those allied with the Catholic and Protestant religions.

"And, whereas, their destructive, derisive and un-Christian propaganda has chosen for its broadcasting the brotherly season of goodwill sacred to us all.

"Be it resolved that the Ministerial Association of Lansing go on record as being unalterably opposed to both the letter and to the spirit of this unfortunate manifesto, and to recommend to all our citizens of goodwill a straight policy of condemnation and repudiation."

The Silver Shirt activities were also assailed in a statement issued by the United Automobile Workers union in which the organization calls for "progressive citizens of Lansing to join us in a picket line of condemnation."

National Guard Warned
About Fascist Leanings

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
ALBANY, N. Y.—National Guardsmen were forbidden by Governor Lehman "to further or promote any so-called nationalistic group or non-American political or racial cause."

The order was issued to Adjutant General Walter G. Robinson in a letter after it was disclosed that uniformed officers and enlisted men of the New York National Guard had attended a ball given by a Russian anti-Soviet newspaper at which uniformed Nazis were also reported to have been present.

PARTITION VOTE
CHANGE BY WORLD
ZIONISTS SEEN

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

TEL AVIV—Confidence that the 21st World Zionist Congress will reverse the stand of the last Congress on partition of Palestine was voiced here by Menachem M. Ussishkin, world president of the Jewish National Fund, at the first public meeting of the Anti-Partition League. He said division of the Holy Land endangered two milleniums of Jewish hope.

A conference of the General Zionist "A" group rejected a resolution by Isaac Gruenbaum, member of the World Zionist Executive, for an appeal to Great Britain to shorten the period of transition to a partitioned Palestine.

'Gentile' Ad In
Phone Book Hit

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ST. LOUIS—A junk dealer's advertisement in the new Classified Telephone Directory implying a slur against Jewish dealers has resulted in a law suit against the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and the firm which submitted the ad.

The ad, printed in the December edition, which has already been delivered to subscribers, says: "Secondary Raw Material Company—Gentile—Call us—There's a difference."

The Wolff Pipe and Iron Company filed suit to halt the telephone service of the Secondary Raw Material Company, contending the ad injured junk dealers, was un-American and tended toward prejudice.

Telephone company officials promised that the ad would not be published in following issues of the directory.

Arab Voices Co-operation Plea

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—Support of a plan breached by President Judah Magnes of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, for a solution of the Palestine problem based on a binational State rather than partition, was expressed at a student Zionist meeting in London University by Mussa Hussein, a cousin of Jerusalem's exiled Mufti.

Discussing the possibilities of Arab-Jewish cooperation, Hussein stated that unless an agreement were reached along the lines of the Magnes proposals, a clash would be inevitable. He said a round-table conference was the only solution of the impasse but that this would be futile without a basis for agreement having been reached beforehand.

Hussein emphasized that he was expressing only his personal views and did not represent any family party.

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—The Christian Arab daily, Falustin, organ of the Nashashibi party, advocated editorially negotiations with Jews on the basis of Viscount Samuel's proposals for fixing them as a minority in an Arab Palestine.

Ready For Understanding

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—The Arabs appear ready for an understanding with the Jews, and the only question is how to bring the understanding about, Dr. Maurice J. Karpf, non-Zionist member of the Jewish Agency Executive, declared this week at a meeting at Temple Emanu-El sponsored by The Judeans.

Discussing the agricultural, territorial and industrial limitations of the partition proposal, Dr. Karpf said that an understanding with the Arabs was essential, whether partition came or not, otherwise there would never be peace in Palestine.

The Editor's Chair:

Advocates of calendar reform will probably gain more Jewish support in the next few weeks than any and all their weighty propaganda of years could have hoped to bring them. Chanukah is gone, and practically no Jewish people, even among the Conservative and Orthodox, have reached the point where they have given their wives and sweethearts gifts for the occasion.

Of course, one thing, the thirty-day disparity in the two holidays—Chanukah and Christmas—will accomplish is to make a lot of honest people out of many who heretofore have contended that they were giving their wives Chanukah gifts. Chanukah or no Chanukah, November is just too early to begin buying presents. So this year it will be a Christmas gift, all the dissembling in the world notwithstanding. There should be a law against Chanukah falling in November, and as soon as I get around to it, I'll write one of my scorching editorials on the deplorable situation, and we'll see if something can't be done.

Although many of the older generation have noticed a gradual rapprochement between Jews of all complexions—Reform, Conservative and Orthodox, the real intermingling is in the younger groups who are just now coming into adulthood. No artificial lines of distinctions exist, and the only demarcations are the natural ones of common likes, or common aims. Where heretofore it was a choice morsel of gossip when a daughter of the family was seen with the son of another of the three groups, now there definitely is no classification and no prejudice. What this will mean when these youngsters grow up and take their places in the community, is a matter of prophecy, but it should be effective for communal accomplishment, and leavening towards the eventual advent of unity of American Jewry.

I have just heard of a lady, non-Jewish, who in order to show her sympathy and friendship for the Jews, asked a Jewish acquaintance if she might secure for her a "mazuzzal" for her doorway. So enchanted was the Jewish lady with this gesture that she repeated it to her rabbi, who in turn secured the "mazuzzal" for the kind lady. According to the latest development...

Christians Conduct Voluntary Campaign For Jewish Drive

AN interesting sidelight on goodwill from Christian to Jew is revealed by a letter from Rabbi Mordecai M. Thurman, of Wilmington, North Carolina, published in The Southern Israelite, of Atlanta, Ga. The letter is self-explanatory, and more reassuring than any other single indication in years.

"While we were announcing in the papers our plans for the United Jewish Appeal, an outstanding non-Jewish attorney, Mr. David Sinclair, approached me on the street one day and said; 'Rabbi, I notice in the papers that you will launch a drive for the relief of persecuted Jews in some parts of Europe, and also for the rehabilitation and settlement of Jewish people in Palestine. Have you considered soliciting from the non-Jewish people of Wilmington? I feel confident that if they were approached they would be only too happy to aid you in your humanitarian work. We Christians know that there is not a cause to which Jews do not contribute, whether in Wilmington or anywhere else, and we want to share some of your responsibilities with you.'

"I told Mr. Sinclair that I would talk the matter over with the Appeal committee. We decided that if Mr. Sinclair would organize a non-Jewish committee to solicit funds from our Christian friends and neighbors it would be satisfactory to us. Mr. Sinclair immediately organized a Non-Jewish Committee for the United Jewish Appeal, with himself as chairman, and I am happy to write you that a very fine contribution was made by this committee to our fund. At the mass meeting which opened our drive, speeches were made by three non-Jews in addition to Mr. Sinclair; the Mayor (Thomas E. Cooper), Father J. A. Manley, and Rev. Mortimer Glover.

"I do not know whether definitely organized non-Jewish soliciting committees have been set up in other communities or in other parts of the country, but we are very proud of this manifestation of goodwill and fine fellowship. The important thing is that it was altogether voluntary on the part of our non-Jewish friends. This is, indeed, brotherhood on the march."

A Suggestion For Jewish Unity—III

STRICTLY PRIVATE

IN comment on a public suggestion by the Hon. Alfred M. Cohen, president of the B'nai B'rith, Dr. Cyrus Adler has let it be known that he thinks that the chance of forming a central, authoritative body to speak for American Jewry (in matters of defense of Jewish rights) are "extremely slim," although he is willing to have a try at organizing an enlarged Joint Consultative Council. He thinks it is more important to have an agreement that Jewish organizations should refrain from attacking one another; any desire to have a Jewish public organization change its methods and policy "should be done by private representation and not by public attack."

The anonymous writer of editorials sent out to the Anglo-Jewish press by the new Seven Arts Syndicate, who uses the quaint name of "Simon A. Feate," says that "this is not only an expression of good taste, but one of great political importance." What is suggested is that public organizations should be privately communicated with in case it is desired to have them change their course, or if there is any criticism to offer of their conduct. Anything that may be said publicly is regarded, as a matter of course, as unseemly "recrimination." Each organization is entitled to its own ideology and methodology, and if anybody does not like what it is doing, let him drop a line to the officers, asking them to give thoughtful consideration to the privately communicated criticism. The "amenities" require tact, consideration, and avoidance of the expression of sharp differences of opinion.

All of this may be of importance if one could depend upon the probability that the private criticism would bring about even a private discussion. But it is hardly to be expected that public organizations that conduct their affairs in executive session will give any serious thought to criticism of their policies, expressed by persons or organizations foreign to their ideas, experience and purposes. Most likely, private criticism will find its way into the private wastebasket.

Dr. Adler's response to Mr. Cohen's invitation

Comments On Current Topics

From A Report On Economic Bias By Rabbi J. X. Cohen, Before The American Jewish Congress Convention in Washington.—The Commission has established relations with thirty-two New York Savings Banks and hopes as a result of its negotiations to bring about an improvement in the employment situation there.

In the insurance field, where an investigation is now in progress, negotiations are being conducted with the Metropolitan and Equitable Life Insurance Companies with a view to correcting a policy which admits Jews to the sales personnel, but virtually excludes them from office positions, regardless of their qualifications.

Considerable study has been given to the employment policies of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its affiliate, the New York Telephone Company. As a result of the negotiations of the American Jewish Congress, tion to form a united front may be in "good taste," but in effect, it purposes a banning of all public discussion of Jewish problems and differences, or, at any rate, it leaves open for such public discussion only abstract and general matters.

What is needed in American Jewish life, however, is a forum in which the various policies and methods of various public organizations may be subjected to the scrutiny and the analysis of a clearing house, in which would be included all Jewish interests. Unless such a clearing house is created, it is impossible, without an effective suppression of freedom of speech, to establish order and discipline in Jewish life. The English Jewish community is conservative enough. The Jews of England are fearful of public discussion of their internal affairs. At the same time, in the Board of Deputies there is the semblance of a parliament under reasonable control, in which a large variety of Jewish matters are given the benefit of general discussion. In the London Jewish Chronicle, there will be found, from time to time, discussions of public matters far more sharply than would be permitted in accordance with the rule of "good taste" that Dr. Adler would like to establish in the United States. The London Jewish Chronicle is the mirror of the life of the Jews in England. It does not hesitate to provoke discussion in the public interest. There is more of order and discipline in English Jewry than there is in American Jewry. What is being done in England could be adapted to American conditions. Certainly it is not necessary in order to avoid the embarrassment that certain people experience whenever Jewish matters are given a public exposure, to put the clamp of silence upon the public discussion of public institutions.

It will be of interest to observe the unanimity which will be given to Dr. Adler's suggestion in the editorials of the Anglo-Jewish weeklies, which, in many cases, will use the endorsement of his views by the gentleman whose by-line editorially is "Simon A. Feate."—The New Palestine.

the question of discrimination against Jews was taken up at a President's Conference of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company held in October, 1937. Several presidents claimed that they had not been aware that the problem existed, while others admitted that they were familiar with it, contending, however, that it was not "a real problem." The president of the parent company advised his associates against permitting personnel managers to reject Jewish applicants because of prejudice. Shortly thereafter, one of the departments of the New York Telephone and Telegraph Company broke a long-standing precedent by engaging a Jewish applicant.

In a number of investigations, charges made against such firms as the Frigidaire Division of the General Motors Corporation, the Regal Shoe Company, and the Bar Association were found to be without basis.

Chanukah Stamps Aid Jewish T. B. Hospital

To The Editor:

For the first time in its history, American Jewry will have its own anti-Tuberculosis "Christian Seals", a beautiful four-colored postage seal to be placed on the back of all letters sent out between Chanukah and Purim.

The stamp commemorates the Jubilee of the Los Angeles Sanatorium and ExPatients Home which, in the course of its twenty five years of service, has taken care of over 8,000 Jewish patients at a cost of approximately five million dollars. From small beginnings this free, national, and non-Sectarian institution has become one of the foremost sanatoriums in the country—a mighty symbol of Jewish achievement and Jewish social service.

The stamps serve a double purpose of letting the world know that the Jewish folk of America are able to take care of their own people and of providing an adequate sum of money to allow the institution to carry on and improve its noble work.

The book of one hundred postage seals sell for one dollar. Every Jewish organization is urged to take enough to cover its mailing needs from Chanukah to Purim. Every Jewish family should take at least one book. Write the National Field Office, 30 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill. Each book sold will help save a life.

Buffalo Rabbis Ask No New Year Parties

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
BUFFALO, N. Y.—An admonition to Jewish groups not to sponsor New Year's eve parties because of the conflict with Sabbath Eve was issued by three Buffalo rabbis through The Buffalo Jewish Review. "We would like to call the attention," the statement declared, "of the Jewish organizations in the community to a very important matter. New Year's Eve this year coincides with the Sabbath. We know that no Jewish group would wish, as a group, to affront the sensibilities of our community by sponsoring a New Year's function on the Sabbath."

Rabbis Morris Adler, Joseph L. Fink and Reuben J. Magil signed the statement.

("On To Galilee!"), sounded by the Jewish National Fund, a 35th anniversary celebration and banquet here last week raised a sum of $12,000, one-third of the total required. The remainder is to be raised within a three-year period.

Rambling

Plays, concerts, suppers, initiations, dances. Every available reporter doing a triple duty and still it goes on. Another week and we strike! Yes sir, strike! Psst! The editor! As we were saying, there's no finer job in the world than being a guest columnist.

Few of the devotees of the theatre missed "Women" at English's. Saw Celia Larman with a group of people we didn't know..... also the former Fritzie Wexler of Chicago here on a visit..... only that's not her married name..... Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dobrowitz back from their wedding trip..... Horthy and Phyllis Weiss. At the Columbia Club Saturday night..... soft lights..... sweet music..... everybody swinging it..... some of the young marrieds..... Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Hammerman..... Verna Mae more beautiful all the time..... Mr. and Mrs. Jack Maurer..... Sunny Weinberg..... Irma Valinetz..... Joe Glass..... just a few of the people we spotted."

A huge crowd at the first "pop" concert of the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra Sunday afternoon..... we watched concertgoers file out when it was over.... Hortense Kauffman....Dorothy Krusch.... Mrs. Meyer Gallin..... Jean Goldsmith and Caroline Pinkus who take in all of them..... one of the Seigel twins giving an exhibition on his big bass viol before the concert started..... sorry, we don't know which one it was..... maybe you saw "Rain from Heaven" at the Civic Theatre..... and were enthralled by the fine performance of Adrian Reiter in the role of a Russian exile..... or are going to the debut of the Indianapolis Symphonic Choir Saturday night..... Louis Robinson is one of the people who sang with the choir Friday afternoon and will sing again Saturday night.....

Noticed Event

The Miroffs (Mr. and Mrs. Leo) have brought a bundle of joy from New York..... a two week old baby boy whom they've adopted..... his name is Franklin Israel Miroff. Congratulations! There was a shower Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Abe Unger.

Good And Fun

Maybe it's Irving Ruben's winning smile or the congeniality of the group—anyhow, something brought out a hundred or more young men and women for the Temple Young People's League supper meeting Sunday evening. "Tiny" Epstein assisted by Bess did a fine job of collecting shillings..... "Tiny" is treasurer..... the magician, Mr. Collins, couldn't fool Sally Maurer whom he called to the stage to assist him..... she knew all his tricks..... confidentially, he didn't fool us, either.... we can make a card disappear anytime..... singing out Sunday evening saved some of the young marrieds from having to cook..... Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnett..... Mr. and Mrs. Lou Fink..... Dr. and Mrs. Kammern..... Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kroot..... Eleanor Sussman and her committee working hard to see that everybody was served..... Helen Kahn who poured tea (coffee, our mistake)..... Fredericka Goodman..... Shirley Barnett..... Edith Hasman..... Annette Herman..... Lester Budd..... Gus Donant..... we missed Joe Rothbard.

Honors

Some of the students on the Shortridge Honor Roll which came out Thursday are Marvin Borman, David Baernkopf, Fanny Chasman, Dorothy Jacobs, Morris Green, Bernice Cohen, Janet Cooler, Marcus Adman, Judith Krohngold, Patricia Jackson. Were there any others?

Students Shine

Indianapolis students away at school are taking honors in journals. Larry Frommer, an S. A. M. at I. U., was reappointed assistant editor of the "Folio", campus literary publication. Robert McGill was recently elected secretary and senior reporter of the Vedette, Culver school paper.

B'nai B'rith did itself proud at its initiation and dance Sunday night. Saw the Rosenbergs..... Mr. and Mrs. David and Mr. and Mrs. Joe..... parents and their children..... Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Seeman..... Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Frisch..... Frances Cohn looking sweet in blue and her sister, Mrs. Lou Spector..... also Dr. and Mrs. Dave Yankner talking earnestly with some people we didn't know..... an attractive group of happily marrieds at one table..... and Mrs. Shoolen Ettinger..... Eli and Mrs. Eli (Ettinger)..... and Mrs. Sam Dock..... Hortense Wolf with a young man we didn't know..... Mildred Freeman with a young man who was introduced but whose name doesn't have the ordinary ring that sticks..... how, he has a very fine position at the statehouse..... Paul Lusten..... Florence Slutsky..... Ed Cohn looking very presidential..... and Mrs. Jack Kammern..... Jack was on the degree team..... his Salinger..... Adelaide Cohn..... Mark and Marris Klain of Marion..... the most skillful "big appler" in town..... Herman Adman..... Fannette Katz..... Mr. and Mrs. B. Maierson.

In answer to many inquiries as to how passes to the Apollo Theatre awarded..... the winner is drawn each week from among subscribers to the Post.... be sure to look in the Classified Directory..... your name may have been drawn..... in case you've called the office and no one has answered you may have called the wrong number..... the new telephone number is LI. 3403..... no, not ours, the Post.

Entertainments

INDIANA—Carol Lombard and Fred McMurray are joined by John Barrymore in the co-starring leads of Paramount's comedy-drama, "True Confession." The film winds up with the most hilarious combination of comedy elements to reach the screen in a long, long while. "Daughter of Shanghai", the second feature is the melodramatic story of the alien smuggling racket and the manner in which a Chinese girl, Anna May Wong, breaks up the ring.

APOLLO—Three great stars in the triumph that lifted them to the peak of fame, "Manhattan Melodrama," starring Clark Gable, William Powell and Myrna Loy. This picture was brought back by popular demand and revolves around two boys pulled from the water when a steamer is burned and follows them in their careers which eventually cross. "Madame X", the second feature starring Gladys George in the role she played on the stage brings to the screen a wealth of artistry and delicate character portrayal.

KEITH'S—"Ecstasy", an uncensored film, brought back by popular request. Plus a second feature:

ZARING—"Breakfast For Two" with Barbara Stanwyck, Herbert Marshall and "Saturday's Hero" with Van Heflin, Sun. through Wed. "The Lady Fights Back" with Kent Taylor, Irene Hervey and the Jones family in "Hot Water", Thurs. through Saturday. Serial every Saturday matinee.

LOEWS—Hollywood turns the laughs on itself to give you a super-colossal festival of fun! Leslie Howard and Joan Blondell in "Stand-In". Clarence Budington Kelland made millions of Saturday Evening Post readers split their sides laughing at this Hollywood satire. "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" with Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Sophie Tucker, C. Aubrey Smith and Ronald Sinclair is the second feature and a treat for the whole family.

BIRTHDAY BIOGRAPHIES

Adventurous Charles Sterne Rauh Displays Leadership and Versatility

Back in the closing days of the last century, when flags waved and bands played to the theme of "Remember the Maine" Charles Sterne Rauh wanted to be a soldier and, presumably, help Teddy Roosevelt ride up San Juan Hill. Watchful parents, not so impressed with the "jingo patriotism" of the day, forestalled that ambition by packing the embryo general off to Culver Military Academy where during 1898 and 1899 his militaristic impulses found expression in colorful, but bloodless dress parades.

From Culver, Mr. Rauh went, in 1900, to Purdue, where he was promptly dubbed "Rowdy". The nickname, we are assured, sprang from the pronunciation of his name, and not from any over-exuberance of undergraduate spirits. On the Purdue campus he was active in a wide leld of endeavor. He was a member of organizer of the Tennis Club, di-Phi Delta Theta fraternity, an organizer of the Tennis Club, director of the Glee Club and Mandolin Club, and one of the founders of the old Minstrel Club which later became the Harlequin Club. A prominent figure in Boilermaker athletics of the day, he served as captain of the Phi Delta Theta baseball team, was manager of athletics for his class, and helped organize the Lafayette polo league.

With a degree as Bachelor of Science in agriculture, "Rowdy" was graduated with the class of 1904 and left the up-state campus to begin his business career "at the bottom" with the E. Raph and Sons Fertilizer Co. Promotion in the chemical division of the company was rapid for the young Purdue grad and 1908 found him as chief chemist in charge of the laboratory. In 1910 he was made superintendent of all departments. He became assistant office manager and sales manager in 1914 and in 1916 assumed the presidency of the company.

In 1926 he was named executive vice-president of the Belt Railroad and Stock Yards Co., advancing to his present post as president in 1929. He is a director of the Indiana National Bank, the Union Trust Co., Egry Register Co., Continental Steel Corporation, and other institutions.

His hobbies and diversions have the wide range of a true cosmopolite. He plays golf, likes almost all athletics, is an ardent amateur photographer. A patron and lover of music, he formerly played first violin in the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra.

He is a member of the Indianapolis Athletic Club, Broadmoor Country Club, Highland Golf and Country Club, Athanum, Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, and B'nai B'rith.

In 1932 and 1937 he was chairman of the Jewish Welfare Fund Campaign. At the present time he is a member of the Board of Directors.

A bachelor, Mr. Rauh lives at 340 E. Maple Road.

Attitude On Christ Stirs Debate

Rabbi Calls For Place For Head Of Christianity

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Pointing out that there should be "a place for Jesus in the synagogue comparable to that which Moses and the Prophets occupy in the Church," Rabbi William F. Rosenblum speaking from his pulpit in Temple Israel, declared that "there seems to be no reason why His resumes of Jewish teaching and the absorbing account of His life and work among the lowly should not be made a part of the synagogue literature today."

"Great progress," said Rabbi Rosenblum, "has been made in the field of good-will between Christian and Jew on the economic, social and civic fronts, and not a single activity which brings Christians and Jews together should be discounted or disturbed. But it is not enough to bring them together; something must be done to keep them from drifting apart."

"There should be a place for Jesus in the synagogue comparable to that which Moses and the Prophets occupy in the Church. Christianity does not deify them, but it recognizes the strength and the truth of their doctrine. Judaism, in a world that may be reactionary for the moment but is destined to regain its sense of progress in the future, need not place Christ on its altar of worship, but can find place for His teachings and wisdom in its literature and perhaps in its liturgy."

Definition Of Dictator Holds Up Favored Bill

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—The Dickstein bill to bar dictatorship advocates from citizenship was referred to a subcommittee for a definition of the term "dictatorship" after no member of the House Immigration Committee could adequately define the key word.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Schulte, Indiana, was appointed when James B. Mullen, representing the National Maritime Union, asked at a committee hearing what the word meant and no one could answer properly.

Mr. Mullen, although testifying in favor of the bill, expressed fears that unless the definition were clear, it might be used against labor unions. A representative of the Army and Navy Union also supported the bill.

The committee reported receipt of petitions and protests from Connecticut against the establishment of a camp at Southbury by the pro-Nazi German-American Bund.

Dodd Resignation Is Seen As Policy Change

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

BERLIN—William E. Dodd, United States Ambassador to Germany, who officially announced his resignation from the post, will be replaced by Hugh R. Wilson, Assistant Secretary of State, and some observers in Washington see in the shift implications of a major change in policy toward Nazi Germany. It was pointed out that the replacing of Mr. Dodd, who has been decidedly unpopular with the Nazis, follows a milder attitude on the part of Great Britain.

The envoy, whose resignation became effective early in January, admitted he had suffered some "real discouragement" after assuming the post in July, 1933, but emphasized that he and all other American diplomatic and consular representatives had always "cordially collaborated" with the German Government.

SCHOOL HEAD BELABORS RABBIS FOR JESUS ADVOCACY

Dr. Rosmarin, prominent educator, author and lecturer takes issue in this challenging article with Jews who would include Jesus among the great teachers of Judaism. Dr. Rosmarin is the director of the "School of the Jewish Woman" in New York, the author of "Religion of Reason" and a popular lecturer on Jewish philosophy and current affairs.

By DR. TRUDE WEISS ROSMARIN

Of late we are being called upon by some rabbis and Jewish intellectuals to acknowledge Jesus as one of our greatest men. "I am proud of Jesus," Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman of St. Louis told a Jewish audience a few weeks ago. Another reform Rabbi, Dr. William F. Rosenblum of New York preached his Chanukah sermon on Jesus, saying that "Jesus had a place in ancient Israel. There should be a place for Jesus in the synagogue." Another Jew, John Cournos prominent writer and critic, addresses the pages of the "Atlantic Monthly" for December, "An Epistle to the Jews" asking his co-religionists to make amends for the mistakes of their ancestors and to acknowledge Jesus as the greatest teacher of Judaism.

While the rabbis at least try to cite some evidence to prove their case, Mr. Cournos satisfies himself with cryptic statements and categorical imperatives, without substantiation of facts. Thus, for instance, he asserts that "the Jews have achieved the apex of their peculiar culture in Christ" and that "the Sermon on the Mount is the noblest expression of the human spirit." Only one who is ignorant of the ethical teachings of Judaism can possibly make such a statement.

While Christian New Testament scholars admit the impossibility of reconstructing a reliable picture of Christ on the basis of the Gospels, Mr. Cournos asserts "modern scholarship has demonstrated beyond every shadow of doubt that Christ was the natural and inevitable culmination of evolutionary processes which carried Israel from the tribal state in which Moses found it to Isaiah, then to Hillel, and finally to Christ." This conforms with the orthodox Christian catechism, but not with the findings of objective scholarship.

Judaism has always refrained from labeling one of its leaders "the greatest," realizing that this is logically impossible. To the Jew, Hillel is not "greater" than Isaiah, nor is the latter "greater" than Moses, but all three are links in the chain of the development of Jewish monotheism and Jewish ethics. This is why they are reversed as teachers. But this is how far the Jew will go in paying tribute to his great men. He will, however never consent to attribute to them "godlikeness"; for God, to the Jew, is not only One but also Unique, which implies that no man ever can attain even a minute part of Divinely Unique Perfection.

A Jewish witticism suggests that the Jews do not accept Christ because no Jew will admit that another Jew attained divinity. There is a deep philosophy contained in this, the philosophy of uncompromising monotheism. To the Jew, God is the eternal enigma. "We shall never know what God is," has been the watchword of Jewish religious teachers and philosophers through the ages. Jesus, however, taught "as the Father knoweth me, even so I know the Father." Maimonides, the eminent medieval Jewish religious philosopher, went so far as to assert that "existence" cannot be ascribed to God, since it is a conception concomitant with the world of matter, and God is spirit only.

The popular appeal of Christianity and its rapid spread in the Gentile world was due to its personification of the God idea in the Son. It was this, more than anything else, which alienated traditional Judaism from Jesus and his later apostles. Judaism is uncompromising on the belief in the singular uniqueness of God. Millions of Jews, throughout the ages, have died so that pure monotheism should live. They knew that no compromise with those who adulterate the pure spirituality of the Jewish God is possible.

The prophets of Israel have become the prophets of mankind, because theirs was a universal message and they discharged it by divesting themselves of their own individuality. They ceased to be individuals and became the mouthpieces of the voice that spoke in

The fact is that Al is a Jew, and to take the word of Rabbi Louis I. Newman, 'a very good Jew.' It happens that Al Hessberg is a distant cousin of the mother of Mrs. Newman, whose name was Lillian Hessberg. Further, Al was confirmed in an Albany Temple, he is an active member of the Kohat Society (a Jewish group) at Yale, and he is that much a Jew that he came down to New York last Spring to speak at the annual Father and Son banquet of Rabbi Newman's Temple Rodeph Shalom. . . . their hearts. None of the prophets of Israel ever employed the pronoun of the first person, to express his views and teachings. The "I" of the prophets is God; the "I" of Jesus is he himself. This is why Jesus is, to use Mr. Cournos' terminology, "smaller" than the prophets who preceded him.

Mr. Cournos holds that "the Sermon on the Mount is the noblest expression of the human spirit." However, he who will compare the Sermon on the Mount with the books of the prophets and the ethical teachings of the rabbis of Jesus' time will, inevitably, come to the conclusion that Jesus did not utter one teaching which had not been proclaimed by the prophets and psalmists before him and the rabbis of his own time. Those who know the Old Testament and post-biblical Jewish literature will find in the Sermon on the Mount nothing else but a summary of popular Jewish teachings. There is not a word in this impassioned address which does not derive from the books of the prophets, the psalms and the ethical sayings of the sages.

Canadian Nazi Leader Gives Judge Salute

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

MONTREAL—Dr. J. G. Lambert, who called himself the leader of the Quebec Fascist Party, clicked his heels and gave the Fascist salute to Judge Enwright in Montreal Court when he was released on bail last week on charges of inciting Montreal University students to riot by a speech.

"The best thing to do is to ignore them," commented the judge as the blue-shirted Fascist marched out of the courtroom with a score of his uniformed followers.

Probe Stickers Urging C. C. N. Y. 'Ghetto Benches'

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Anti-Semitic stickers, some of them asking "ghetto benches" for Jews, appeared last week in the halls of the College of the City of New York, whose student body is over eighty per cent Jewish.

Dean Morton Gottschall, conferring with a special Student Council committee appointed to investigate the stickers, suggested that volunteer student brigades be formed to patrol the halls during the day and evening.

An anonymous letter was sent to The Campus, undergraduate newspaper, saying the stickers were "the opening guns of the intensive battle of all Christian anti-Semites" and prophesying the day "when the heads of all your ignoble ilk shall roll in the sand."

The point that hasn't been explained is what significance a "mazuzah" has for a non-Jewish home along the lines of friendship. Anyway, it certainly is an indication and probably if the truth were known, a great many non-Jews, flaunting their attitude in the face of anti-Semites, would like to display some evidence of their friendship to the Jews.

Yehudi, Sister On Radio Sunday

YEHUDI

Yehudi Menuhin, youthful wizard of the violin, and his pianist-sister, Hephzibah, will make one of their rare joint appearances on radio as guests on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, Dec. 19, from 10 to 11 p.m., CST over the coast-to-coast CBS network.

Yehudi, now 21, returned to the concert platform last September after a two-year period of retirement and research spent on the Menuhin ranch at Los Gatos, California, 55 miles south of San Francisco. He is now on an extensive concert tour which will cover the British Isles and the Continent as well as the United States. Hephzibah, 17-year-old piano virtuoso, has made only infrequent concert appearances since she gave her first public recital in her native San Francisco at the age of eight. Her first appearance, incidentally, was made from the same Shrine Auditorium platform that saw Yehudi make his debut four years previous.

In addition to Yehudi and Hephzibah there is another musician in the Menuhin family, 15-year-old Yaltah, who is also a pianist of the first order. She has not yet appeared professionally. All three Menuhins are outstanding scholars and fluent in Italian, French, Spanish, German and Russian as well as their native English.

Recently in New York, Yehudi made musical history when he gave the first performance in America of the newly-released Schuman Violin Concerto in D Minor.

Prophecy Fulfilled?

NEW YORK—Possible fulfillment of a prophecy in the Book of Daniel was seen by Hebrew scholars here in the appointment of Sir Harold Alfred MacMichael as Palestine High Commissioner.

The scholars pointed to the opening sentence in Chapter XII, which reads as follows: "And at that time will Michael the great prince who standeth for the children of thy people, stand forth; and there will be a time of distress, such as hath never been since the existence of any nation, until that same time; and at that time shall thy people be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book."

Glazer further states that Tony Falkenstein of St. Mary's, a JTA honorable mention, is also not a Jew. 9,000 American Jews Now Live In Holy Land

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—An $80,000,000 stake in the well-being of Palestine is revealed by a Jewish Telegraphic Agency survey of American financial interests in the Holy Land. This total includes nearly $50,000,000 in business investments and more than $30,000,000 in contributions toward the upbuilding of the Jewish National Home and toward religious, cultural and welfare activities.

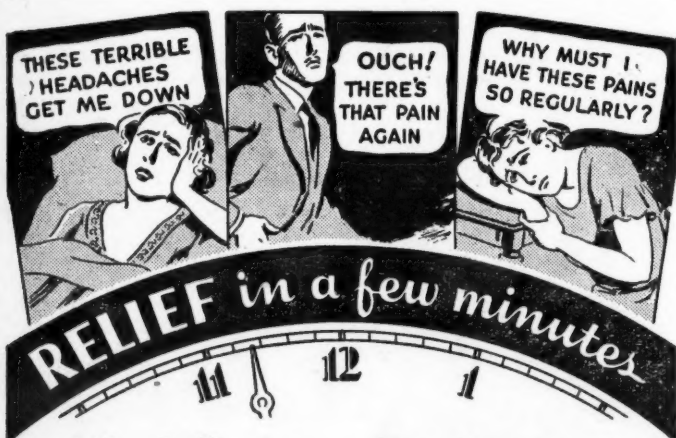

Ten thousand Americans are living in Palestine, 9,000 of them Jews. It was also learned that in the past year there has been a rapid increase in Jewish emigration from Palestine to the United States, which is now proceeding at the rate of 100 persons a month, three times as great as a year ago.

The figures for American business investments are minimums. They comprise holdings definitely located, and the actual total may be several million dollars higher. Figures for donations and contributions also may be several million dollars short of the real total, bearing in mind particularly the large amounts of American contributions sent to Palestine before the World War.

About 80 per cent of the American business investment in Palestine has been made by American Jews, whose holdings, according to the American Economic Committee for Palestine, total at least $39,400,000, distributed as follows: land and buildings, $17,650,000; citriculture, $9,400,000; investments, $4,400,000; mortgages, $4,850,000; industry and handicraft, $1,950,000; commerce, transport and service businesses, $1,150,000.

For this year, American Jewish contributions to Palestine will total about $2,000,000, half of which is for Zionist activities. American enterprises not primarily Jewish have invested and contributed more than $8,000,000 in Palestine, distributed as follows:

Iraq Petroleum Corporation, $2,400,000; Socony-Vacuum Corporation, $500,000; religious and benevolent institutions, $2,700,000; archaeological interests, $2,200,000; miscellaneous (mostly holdings of Arabs naturalized as American citizens), about $500,000.
